Washington Business Journal – Friday, August 10, 2007

Legato Corner, a 202-unit condominium project in Fairfax, has sold out.

McWilliams Ballard, which handled the sales and marketing of the project, made the announcement.

Legato Corner is at 4415 Wetherington Lane. The building offers one-, two-, and three-bedroom units at prices starting from $250,000.

The project was developed by Fairfield Residential LLC.

The building is one of the projects in which Fairfax County bought 13 units through its Magnet Housing program aimed at helping county employees find affordable housing.
